CHILDREN & TEEN

Halloween Safety Reminders

Parents with children who plan to take part in Halloween activities should take steps to ensure their children's safety. Trick-or-treating should be limited to children under 13 years old. A parent or other responsible person should accompany very young children. Parents with children who go trick-or-treating should give their children a full meal before they go, warn their children against engaging in vandalism or damaging property and inspect their children's treats before letting them eat anything.

Children should go trick-or-treating only in housing areas where they live, approach only residences with lighted entryways and wear light-colored costumes made of nonflammable material. For added visibility costumes should be marked with reflective tape or luminous paint. Costumes should not be so long that they could cause the child to trip. Avoid wearing masks or headgear that restrict vision, use makeup instead.

Observe basic safety precautions, use sidewalks, look in both directions before crossing the street and do not take shortcuts through yards. Carry a flashlight after dark. If a pumpkin is carried as a lantern, it should be lit with a battery-powered device, not a candle. Pet owners should take measures to keep their pets away from trick-or-treaters. Trick-or-treating in housing areas will be Oct. 31 from 6 to 8 p.m.
